PACIFICA LAW GROUP PROMOTES JAMIE LISAGOR TO PARTNER

(Seattle, WA) – Pacifica Law Group is very pleased to announce that lawyer Jamie Lisagor has been elected to the partnership, effective January 1, 2017.

Jamie practices trial and appellate litigation on behalf of public, private, and non-profit clients, with a focus on constitutional, municipal, commercial, election, and intellectual property law. Jamie has represented clients in successful appeals before both state and federal courts, including the Washington appellate courts and U.S. Courts of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit and Federal Circuit. She also provides general counseling on a variety of municipal, constitutional, regulatory, and intellectual property issues. In addition, Jamie regularly works on state and local voter initiatives and city ordinances, including drafting, constitutional analysis, and legal challenges.

Before joining Pacifica Law Group, Jamie served as a law clerk to the Honorable Richard C. Tallman of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit and Magistrate Judge Debra Freeman of the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York. Prior to clerking, she was a litigation associate at Quinn Emanuel Urquhart & Sullivan and a staff attorney at legal aid associations in New York and Hawai'i. She earned a J.D. from University of Virginia School of Law, and a B.A. in Modern Culture and Media from Rice University.

Jamie is committed to public service and is active in numerous regional community organizations. She serves as president of the board of directors of Youth in Focus and on the Executive Committee of the Washington State Council on Public Legal Education. She regularly provides pro bono representation on appellate matters, and recently argued and won a pro bono appeal before the Ninth Circuit based on a federal agency's overreach of its rulemaking authority. She also is active in several professional organizations, including serving as a committee co-chair for the Federal Bar Association-WDWA.
