Brittany Faulkner is a construction and procurement attorney whose practice focuses on advising and representing public and private clients on a broad range of issues related to construction projects. Her experience includes bidding and procurement, contract drafting and negotiation, alternative project delivery, lien and bond issues, payment disputes, delay claims, contract suspension and termination, litigation, and dispute resolution.

Before joining Pacifica, Brittany practiced at both a boutique and a national law firm, where she advised and represented clients in complex disputes involving construction, real estate, public utilities, infrastructure, OSHA, general liability, and complex insurance matters. She counseled clients at all phases of construction, from contract drafting and negotiation to litigating multi-million dollar contract disputes.

Prior to that, Brittany served in the U.S. Army Judge Advocate General (JAG) Corps, where she gained significant regulatory, trial, and litigation experience. Some of her roles included serving as an administrative law counsel, pre-trial military magistrate, and trial counsel at Joint Base Lewis-McChord, Washington, and serving as counsel to an aviation unit in Bagram, Afghanistan.
